An Adaress to the Democracy of Kentucky. The Democratic State Central Consuittee begs to address the democrats of Kentucky a few words of obser and hope. In the bare fact of nearly twenty-four years of republican maladministration of the political affairs of our great republic consists. the strongest argument to individual democrain to leave no honest effort untried to secure a change of party's domination, and thereby a change of policy and of methods. Our party in national convention assembled at Chicago last week, after four days spent u interchange of opinion by the delegates, iconsisting of many of the ablest veteran democrats of the country, and witnessed by the largest assemblage of people ever assembled at a convention on this continent, presented to the country a platform of principles upon which every honest patriot can stand, and named as its candidate for President a gentleman of transcendent ability and well approved official and personal integrity, the record of whose whole past life affords the strongest guaranty of his adhe. sion to the principle and practice of adminlatrative reform, while the second place on the ticket was given to an illustrious citizen of the republic who has once beretotore been elected to the high cilice of Vice President, but who was frauditlently deprived of his seat by the republican members of a packed court, incited thereto and protected therein by the mailed hand of military power. As hundreds of whige in Kentucky voted for Andrea Jackson in 1428, because of their sense of terr play and their recentment toa, he'was not declared by the House of Representatives entitled to the Presidency, to which they felt he had been elected in 1524, so will the pendulum of public justice swing to Mr Hendricks thousands if hises independent votes in 1884 at... ax ham hamly in the other to which he was alseted in 1876 and from which he will not he noted by the decree of another republican court, which, instead of registering an award of ittatice, entered the mandate of a party caucus. Republics may be sometimes untrateful, but never deliberately unjust,

In behalf of honest taxation; in behalf o administrative reform and honest, ecrupulous political methole, we beg of you to addreen yourselves at once to the task of or ganizing Cleveland and Hendricks Clubs in your respective counties, precincle and neighborhoods; invite a comparison of candidates and a discussion of platform principles with the enemy; lay aside all mere personal and minor differences, and, with hearly good will and entire harmony of purpose, unite and put forth your best efforts in August and November and a glorious victory awaits you,-[Signed by the State Central Committee. History Which Will Repeat Itself.

In 1871 when Samuel J. Tilden was a condidate for linvernor of New York, John Kelly and his henchmen were his avowed supporters. But in 1876, because they could not use Samuel J. Tilden while Govornor, and because he was too much man to bow to the will of Tammany, he was bitterly opposed by Tammany in the national democratic convention held in St Louis, Mo. All the bitter invections and falseboods of which Tammany is capable were the convention Kelly begged that Tilden be not nominated, saying that he would lose New York to democracy let an overwhelming majority. Tammany was disregarded, Tiblen was nowinated, carried New York by 32 (10 minj crity and was elected President of the Printed States, In 1551 Tammany again opposed the nomination of libben. Cleveland was nominated, will be elected President and will carry New York by 50,000 majority. This hit of history clearly demonstrates that all corrupt organ-Izations and diereputing influences, such as Tammany has proven itself to be, should he "sat down on" to recure victory .- [Lexington Press.

STILL PRAISING THE TICKET.

There is no doubt that Gov. Cleveland, in personal character and cleantiness of record, was the most unassailable capilidate that the democracy could have offered. His career as Governor has shown him to he a practical reformer, and superior to the temptations of using public office for the sustenance of a political machine.-[Pittahorg Dispatch (Rep.)

The democratic Presidential Convention has completed its perfect work. The nowination of Grover Cleveland for the distingulshed office of l'resident was fitly tollowed by the selection of Thos. There may be factions in the democratic party in Indiana, but if an, every member of each turns with the utmost faith to Thos. A. Hendricks.
